REGINA HOUSING MARKET RETURNS TO BALANCE, SAYS NEW REALTORS® ASSOCIATION PRESIDENT

Regina, Saskatchewan — While those shopping for Regina property in 2016 saw less inventory to choose from compared to the previous two years, a bump in sales has brought the market more into balance. The 2017 President of the Association of Regina REALTORS® Inc., Jason Cossette, sees reason for optimism in the market.

“Despite the resource sector taking a hit for the past two years and a drop in overall housing demand, the Regina real estate market is performing well. 2017 looks to be a stable market for both buyers and sellers.”

Regina residential sales reported in all geographic areas was up 3% in 2016 from the previous year, inventory will again tell the story for 2017. “Buyers need to be ready to act given the potential for lower inventory than in recent years. Sellers look to be well positioned in the months ahead; timing and a good pricing strategy will allow them to take advantage of some pent-up demand in the market.” Cossette adds.

Cossette is a third generation Reginan and second generation REALTOR®. Cossette is part of RE/MAX Crown Real Estate in Regina, focusing on residential real estate and is proud to call Regina home with his wife Shannon, daughter Shanaya and son Jarret. Cossette consistently seeks to improve the business of organized real estate and the client/REALTOR® experience through continuous education.
